ACCESS TO INFORMATION ACT

The Canadian Race Relations Foundation

Annual Report to Parliament

April 1, 2016 to March 31, 2017

This Annual Report is tabled in Parliament in accordance with section 72 of the ATI Act.

INTRODUCTION

The purpose of the Access to Information Act (ATI Act) is to provide a limited right of access to information contained in records under the control of most government institutions and certain other organizations created by Parliament, such as Canadian Race Relations Foundation (CRRF). The information is subject to certain limited and specific exceptions. The ATI Act is based upon the principles that the public should have a right of access to information about government activities, that exceptions to this right should be limited and specific, and that decisions about access should be subject to independent review. The ATI Act is intended to complement, not replace, established channels of communication.

In accordance with Section 72 of the Access to Information Act, this Annual Report on the administration of the Access to Information Act at the CRRF describes how the CRRF discharged its responsibilities in relation to the Act in the fiscal year 2016-2017.

Canadian Race Relations Foundation Mandate

The CRRF was established as part of the Japanese Canadian Redress Agreement of 1988. The Canadian Race Relations Foundation Act was passed in 1990 and proclaimed in 1996 "...to facilitate throughout Canada the development, sharing and application of knowledge and expertise in order to contribute to the elimination of racism and all forms of racial discrimination in Canadian society..." The CRRF opened its doors in November 1997. A Crown Corporation, one of the portfolio agencies of the Department of Citizenship, Immigration and Multiculturalism Canada, the CRRF operates at arm's length from the Government of Canada. The CRRF also has registered charitable status. Its operating income is derived primarily from the income generated by the investment of the endowment fund.

The CRRF is a leading and authoritative national voice and agent of change for the elimination of all forms of racism, and the promotion of a more harmonious Canada. The CRRF is a leader in the development of a national framework for eliminating all forms of racism and helping to strengthen Canadian identity as it refers, for example, to the principles of equality of opportunity, fairness, justice and human dignity. The CRRF will advance understanding of the past and present causes and manifestations of racism, and work toward its elimination through the promotion of effective and harmonious race and ethnic relations, civic responsibility, research, supporting and promoting the development of national policies, and the establishment of information databases.

The CRRF has no formal mandate or the power to investigate complaints and impose sanctions, but may make recommendations to policymakers on the elimination of racism.
